CORENA announces S1000D package support for Airbus 350 suppliers

CORENA, the leader in S1000D software, announces an A350, out-of-the-box solution, enabling suppliers to generate, manage, and produce data in compliance with the Airbus program requirements.

Because the specific parameters generated by Airbus for the A350 program are already configured in the CORENA S1000D solution, suppliers can be up and running in a matter of hours.

“This solution is going to save A350 suppliers a lot of time and money because they will not have to go through the processes of understanding the data requirements and rules, implementing software and configuring it correctly to generate their data according to the A350 requirements” says Toralf Johannessen, CEO, CORENA. “Furthermore it helps to shorten the normally lengthy S1000D learning curve.”

The solution consists of a license for up to 5 users, the CORENA S1000D CSDB software pre-configured with the A350 data module requirements, and 40 hours of installation, training, and operational support. With its more than 15 years of S1000D experience, CORENA offers world-class support for training, installation and operations.
